

LANCX REMOTE CONTROL

Overview

The Keene Lanc remote control is designed to provide easy single button control for LANC equipped camcorders & VTR's.

Connection

Simply plug the cable into the camcorder's LANC socket - no other power source is required.

Operation

As you would expect with a single button device, operation is fairly straightforward!

Button up - LED off

In this mode the camera is in standby (sleep) mode

Button depressed - LED on

In this mode the camera is recording

Button depressed - LED flashing

In this mode the camera is on and the LANCX is attempting to initiate recording. Normally the flashing should change to constant within a few seconds. If it continues to flash permanently then an error has occurred (for example the cassette may be write-protected or at an end).

The LANC will work in either CAMERA or VTR mode
